Loyola Confers Honorary Degree Upon Jubilarian

In recognition of his outstanding educational services during his half century in the Congregation of St. Francis Xavier, Brother Benjamin Burke will receive Loyola College's highest honor, the degree of Doctor of Literary Law, at the Commencement Exercises this Sunday.

Fifty Years A Brother

Brother Benjamin is now vocational director of all Xaverian schools. His half-century as a Religious has been notable. Born in 1875, the youngest of 11 children, Brother Benjamin entered the Congregation in 1893. In his teaching in elementary schools in Boston in 1900, Brother Benjamin soon manifested the administrative ability which started his long career of outstanding success as school administrator and religious superior.

Held Distinguished Posts

In 1907 he became headmaster of St. John's Prep school, Danvers, Mass. This was followed by a twelve year term as Principal of St. Xavier's High School, Louisville, Kentucky. He was Superintendent of St. Mary's Industrial School of Baltimore and Supervisor of schools and Provincial Treasurer until 1937, when he became a member of the Provincial council of his Congregation.

In part, the honorary document reads, "Loyola College deems it a privilege to bestow its highest honor upon this outstanding educator in his jubilee year."

Steffy To Give Senior Oration

Edwin T. Steffy, Jr., will deliver the valedictory address at the commencement exercises, Sunday, Oct. 10. He will speak on the subject, "The Pope and Peace."

Brilliant Student

An honor man of the graduating class, Mr. Steffy will receive his degree summa cum laude. During his college course, he has been very active in extra-curricular activities. For four years he was an energetic member of the International Relations Club, and was elected Chairman of that society in his third year. Mr. Steffy addressed a meeting of the International Relations Clubs of the Middle East at Princeton University last March.

Member Of Student Council

For two years Mr. Steffy was a member of the student governing body, and was elected to the Alpha Sigma Nu National Jesuit honor fraternity in his third year. He was a member of the Sodality, and prominent in its undertakings. During the early part of the college term, he was the Feature Editor of THE GREYHOUND and in his senior year was an Associate Editor of the annual Evergreen.

Eleven Seniors Begin Training At Notre Dame

Called to Notre Dame University in South Bend under the V-7 plan, eleven members of the graduating class left on September 30. The V-7s were originally expected to be allowed to graduate before being called, but in mid-September an emergency order was issued for at least six volunteers to leave early for Notre Dame. Eleven Seniors responded. The eleven volunteers were: Richard J. Oppitz, Paul J. Plunkett, Charles R. Rouse, Gerard Ciccarone, H. Calloway Harrison, Joseph S. Keelty, Cornelius T. Walker, Alexius A. Dyer, Charles C. Lancaster, Richard Molloy, and Raymond C. Bryant. Besides these, Chris A. Mollis, Francis K. Machata, and Harry J. Chase were called to the Navy some time ago. It is expected that they will complete their final exams where they are now stationed, and receive their diplomas at the same time as the rest of the class.

Shortly after graduation, the other members of the class who are enlisted in the V-7 plan will be called to active duty. They will probably be sent to Columbia University.

Last V-7 Class

Under Navy regulations those students who had but one semester to complete by July 1, 1943, could remain at Loyola or enter the service. If they choose to enter the Navy they would be sent to a specified college, and complete their education at the expense of the government. However, all of the Senior members decided to remain at Loyola, and receive their degrees here. V-12 has replaced V-7 for college students and so the Seniors are the last class of V-7s.

Intensive Training

Upon completion of three weeks training, the V-7s will take an examination, the successful completion of which will raise them to the rank of Midshipmen. After three more months of rigorous training, they will be commissioned Ensigns and be ready for active duty.

65 In First October Graduating Class; Over Half To Leave For Navy Colleges

To Speak Here

Walter Lippmann, America's most distinguished political writer, will address the graduates on Sunday, October 10. Mr. Lippmann is author of the recent Book-of-the-Month Club selection, "U. S. Foreign Policy; Shield of the Republic." This, his latest book, has been called "the most important book written for Americans in a generation."

Mr. Lippmann was born in New York City in 1889. After spending winters at private schools and summers in Europe, he entered Harvard University in 1906. While at Harvard he changed his political ideas and organized the Harvard Socialist Club. He was graduated with high honors in only three years.

After graduation, Mr. Lippmann spent a year at Harvard as assistant to George Santayana, professor of philosophy. In 1910 when the professors of Harvard were asked, "Who, among the new graduates has the ablest mind which can express itself in writing?" the unanimous choice was Walter Lippmann.

First Book Published

In the summer of 1912, Lippmann retired to a cabin in the Maine woods to write his first political book, "A Prelude to Politics". This was the first of 18 books on politics, morals, economics, personalities and social life. Theodore Roosevelt wrote an enthusiastic review of it, from which a warm friendship developed.

Lippmann was Associate Editor of the New Republic, during the early years of Woodrow Wilson's administration. The New Republic at this time was "almost the official White House organ", and its editor was a frequent visitor to Washington. In June 1917, Lippmann was called to Washington to be special secretary to Secretary of War Baker, to handle the relations between the War Department and to organize labor in building cantonments.

Buchness Heads Student Council

John Michael Buchness, Junior Arts student, is the new President of the Student Council, and C. Gilbert Dunn, Philosophy Junior is the President of the Athletic Association. Buchness won with a comfortable margin over five other candidates, while Dunn barely nosed out Bob Martin for the Athletic post.

The new officials were inducted on Thursday, September 16, at ceremonies on the campus before the statue of Our Lady of Evergreen. The Reverend Edward B. Bunn, President of Loyola, and the Reverend Joseph A. d'Inwilliers, Dean of Studies, witnessed the induction. Gil Dunn by reason of his new position will also head the Block-L. The remaining offices in each organization will be filled at the next meeting.

Baccalaureate Mass Precedes Commencement

The traditional Baccalaureate Mass for the members of the graduating class will be offered in St. Ignatius' Church, Calvert and Madison Streets at 9 A.M., Sunday, October 10. The celebrant will be the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, ex '17, who is at present stationed at St. Matthew's Church, Washington. The sermon at the Mass will be delivered by the Rev. John S. Spence, ex '30, of St. Matthew's Church, Washington. Fr. Spence is the Holy Name Director in the District of Columbia, and is well known to all members of the Alumni Association.

Caps And Gowns

The Graduates, attired in caps and gowns, will march in procession from the Rectory, up the middle aisle of the church. The parents and friends of the graduates are cordially invited to witness the Mass.

Immediately after the Mass, the Baccalaureate Communion Breakfast will take place in the Stafford Hotel. The members of the Loyola College Alumni Association including the fathers of many of the graduates will be present. As is the custom, the oldest living graduate will be the guest of honor.

Guest Of Honor

This year, as for the past several years, the guest of honor will be Mr. Charles J. Bouchet, a distinguished Baltimore lawyer, who received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the College in 1887 and his Master of Arts degree in 1891. At this breakfast the graduates of the class of October 1943 will formally be inducted into the Alumni Association, and will receive their membership cards.

The ninety-second commencement exercises of Loyola College will mark the graduation of 65 seniors, and is the second commencement to be held this year. The exercises will be held in the college gymnasium at 3:30 this Sunday afternoon, October 10.

The graduates will receive Bachelor of Science, BSII, AB, and PhD degrees. The majority of degrees given will be those of Bachelor of Science.

An honorary degree of Doctor of Laws will be conferred upon Brother Benjamin Burke, C.F.X., in recognition of his outstanding services as educator in the Xaverian Brothers.

Graduation Climaxes Senior Week

The graduation will be the climax of the traditional Senior Week, which began on October 5 with a Stag Party. This was followed on Wednesday, Oct 6, by the Senior Prom, open to seniors only. On Thursday the Senior Banquet was held, and on Sunday morning, the traditional Baccalaureate Mass will be celebrated at St. Ignatius' Church.

14 V-7s Already Gone

Missing from the platform will be eleven members of the graduating class, who were called to Notre Dame under the V-7 plan on September 30. All the V-7s were originally expected to be allowed to graduate before being called. But in mid-September an emergency order summoned at least six volunteers to leave early. Eleven seniors responded. Three others, pursuing pre-medical and pre-dental studies were called into the Navy some time ago. Two of these expect to be able to return for graduation.

Other V-7s to Leave Shortly

Besides those already called, the 20 other members of the class who are enlisted in the V-7 plan will be called to active duty shortly after graduation. Most are expected to be sent to Columbia University.

Edwin T. Steffy, Jr., of the graduating class will deliver the Valedictory, speaking on "The Pope and Peace". The address to the graduates will be given by Walter Lippmann, distinguished author and journalist.

Graduation 8 Months Early

This class was originally scheduled to graduate in June, 1944, but the accelerated program has enabled them to receive their degrees 8 months earlier. 1943 has marked an unprecedented two graduations in one year. If the accelerated program is continued, a class is expected to graduate every six months beginning January, 1945. The next graduation will be January 16, 1944.

At that time diplomas will be given to some thirty students of the class who answered the Navy's call to active duty in the early part of July, and who are now studying at the various Navy colleges.

Commencement

Commencement is usually associated with the entrance of the graduates into personal fields of endeavor. With college training these men are expected to take their place in the business and professional fields as leaders of the younger generation. Usually these men would be called upon to make important decisions effecting themselves and others.

The men who comprise the graduating class in the third war-time commencement exercises are dedicated to a universal principle, a world-wide law. The entrance they make must be on the field of battle as they stake their very existence that Right will prevail. The places they would ordinarily hold in the community as the intellectual leaders must, for a time, remain vacant but these men will return. If not personally then spiritually, they will return as perpetual memorials to their unselfishness. In war every man of them will share in the making of decisions which may decide the kind of world that will remain after the task is completed.

The responsibility which the graduates assume is not a light one. The trust which is placed in their hands is not intended for the weak. Only determined and God-fearing men are capable of bearing such a burden but if there is a man incapable of the task, he is not a Loyola man. During the past three and one-half years, Loyola graduates have been trained to think and to weigh values prudently. Their future after the war will depend on how well they learned these lessons. In the immediate future their lives may depend upon it.

This is not a pessimistic view rather it is fact-facing. It is all too clear that the post-war period will find men too war-weary to plan intelligently for the peace, and it will also find men, such as will be graduated Sunday, forcing the post-war planners to remove the causes of war. The ultimate choice lies with the individual. The Loyola man will be found prominent in the gigantic job of building the peace.

Attention Alumni

Doctor Edward A. Dochler, '30, Secretary of the Loyola Alumni Association, has urged the alumni and friends to attend the Baccalaureate Mass and the Commencement on Sunday.

The Mass will be said at Saint Ignatius' Church, and the other exercises will be held on the campus at Evergreen. Alumni are urged to attend in cap and gown if possible. THE GREYHOUND staff can only add its request that alumni and friends do all in their respective powers to make this year's commencement noteworthy in every respect.

The Reader's Right

To the Editor of THE GREYHOUND,
Sir:

I just received the last issue of THE GREYHOUND, and it was like a breath of fresh air in all this heat and humidity. Reading the issue, I could see myself back in the old oak room with the gang having some more of those wonderful times. You boys needn't worry about keeping up the tradition of putting out the best paper in the East. You are doing it. Whoever wrote the article on Jack Delahay should be congratulated. It was really swell and God willing, I hope that will be the last of such stories.

I suppose the sports picture has changed a great deal now. THE GREYHOUND will be responsible for keeping the Loyola sport scene, whatever it be, before the readers. The under-graduates should become very sport conscious. Physical condition is the most important weapon outside of the training we receive at the Navy Schools.

That does it for this time, but continue the fine work and let people know what Loyola is. Everywhere that I go I talk about my alma mater. Perhaps people have never heard of Loyola (Baltimore) before I get there but when I leave they certainly know what we have, and how proud we are of such a great college.

Sincerely yours,
Ensign Francis X. Kearney, USNR

(Editor's Note—THE GREYHOUND will appreciate similar letters from the alumni in service.)

News In Brief

A former Loyola College student, J. O'Neill Miller, '37, is the composer of the song, "There's Lots of Little Fishes in the Sea," which is now being broadcast. When he was a student at Loyola, Mr. Miller wrote music for the annual school show.

* * * *

Second Lieutenant James P. Gallagher, '42 who is now stationed at Logan Field, and 2nd Lieutenant David Walton, '42, both of the Army Air Corps visited the campus recently.

* * * *

Ensign Carroll Feeley, '43, of the Naval Reserve is now stationed at New Orleans, La. He has been assigned to landing barges.

* * * *

Second Lieutenant Robert H. Conant, '37, was reported wounded in the battle of North Africa. After graduating from Loyola, Lt. Conant attended Georgetown University on a five year fellowship where he received his Ph.D. in Chemistry, in June 1942.

Beautifully framed original etchings of "The Gateway to Loyola" by Dana Jockley are available at the President's office for five dollars each.

Father Rector Urges Planning For Post-War

"College men must be prepared to take an active part in the post-war world", said the Very Reverend Edward B. Bunn, S.J., President of Loyola College, in reporting the findings of the Commission For Post-War Planning of the Association of American Colleges. Father Bunn is secretary of the Commission and spoke before the Greyhound staff on the occasion of its annual banquet.

According to statistics released at the conference attended by the leading educators of the East, 26% of the men in service today have had college training as compared to 5% in World War I. High school training is possessed by 54% of the men in the armed forces as compared to half that number in the first war. "These figures," said Father Bunn, "show how much education has been stressed during the twenty-odd years between the two conflicts. It is clear evidence of the concern which the Army and Navy leaders have for placing men who can think on the world's battle-fronts".

Continued the President of Loyola, "The Greyhound's part in the program will consist in giving publicity to the conscientious efforts of educators to make the peace lasting. There should be no duplication of past errors if the men educated to think are allowed to lead in the post-war era."

Following his address, Father Bunn was inducted into the newly organized Greyhound Press Club.

Six Fellowships Awarded Seniors

Six members of the senior class were recently awarded fellowships to several nearby universities. These students were chosen because of their outstanding scholastic records throughout their college courses.

The University of Maryland has called upon three seniors to teach physics. They are William Judge, Charles Weiss and Norbert Wagner. Charles Bitterli, former Vice-President of the Mathematics Club, will teach math at Johns Hopkins University. Each of these men has taken a three year course in college physics. This includes courses in radio, electronics, modern physics and astronomy.

Barkley Fritz and John Giblin will teach at Georgetown University. Fritz, who has taken every math course Loyola has to offer, will teach mathematics to soldiers in the A. S. T. P. Giblin will teach physics to the same group.

Greyhound Scribe Interviews Information Please Experts

By Terrence E. Burke

"You simply can't just say, 'I'm going to sit down and write a war song'", said Oscar Levant. "That is, you can't if you know what is meant by a war song."

We were seated in a suite at the Belvedere Hotel. It was the evening of September 20, a few hours before Information Please was to be broadcast from the Lyric Theatre. Sun and News-Post reporters were interviewing John Kieran, Clifton Fadiman, and Franklin P. Adams in other parts of the room.

"What exactly do you mean by a war song, Mr. Levant?"

The music expert extracted a package of cigarettes and numerous match folders from his pocket. "A war song doesn't have to be about the war at all. Most aren't. K-k-katie in 1918 didn't contain a word about war. Neither did Keep the Home Fires Burning. But at the time both of them ranked with Over There. A war song has to have something inherent—nostalgia for instance—that the soldiers like—they're the ones who make the song a war song. You can't fathom that quality, but you can always tell it's there in every successful war song."

"What do you consider the best tune of this war?"

"Well," said the author of A Smattering of Ignorance, "Praise the Lord was a fine song. So is the Army Air Corps Hymn. But the Over There of World War II hasn't been written yet. Plugging won't be necessary with that song. You'll know it when it gets here."

I caught sight of John Kieran, New York Sun columnist, and headed toward him through the crowded room. He looked up in amusement as I approached.

"Good night!" he laughed. "Are you working for a regular newspaper? This manpower shortage must really be terrible. What do you want to know?"

"Mr. Kieran, I think one question that puzzles each of your listeners is how you 'experts' manage to answer the difficult questions fired at you by Mr. Fadiman."

The columnist smiled and applied a match to his pipe. "We don't have any phenomenal ability or anything like that. We believe that many competent newspapermen from various departments of the game could answer just as well as we do—perhaps better. After all, we represent different fields, and each of us has had a great deal of experience in his own field. Osc (Mr. Levant) makes his living at music, so he naturally knows a lot about it. Frank (Mr. Adams) and myself make our livings in the fields of sports and books."

"Anyone with wide experience in one field ought to be ashamed of himself if he can't answer questions about that field—and that's exactly the way we feel when we miff one Clif asks us."

Mr Kieran graduated cum laude from Fordham University and was connected with the Sports Department of the New York Times from 1915 until his recent switch to the New York Sun.

"One thing that helps you accumulate a lot of knowledge is reading", he continued. "Even reading of popular fiction will help. For instance, there's a book out now called The Valley of Decision. Two years from now it won't make any difference whether you've read it or not—but you will have learned a little about the coal mining business from it. The same holds true for Gone With the Wind in giving you knowledge of our Civil War, or For Whom the Bell Tolls for the Spanish War, or Shakespeare for English history."

"Now that you've quit sports-

Four Receive Merit Pins At Staff Banquet

Joseph G. Kuhn, Jr., Daniel H. Bathon, Barkely Fritz and W. Thorn Peters were awarded pins representing distinguished service to THE GREYHOUND. The Reverend Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., moderator of the student publication, made the awards at the annual banquet for the retiring members of the staff.

Kuhn has served for the past semester as News Editor of THE GREYHOUND while Barkley Fritz served a like tenure as Copy Editor. Thorn Peters and Daniel Bathon have worked together in the circulation department for practically their entire college career. The four men gave brief speeches of acceptance.

THE GREYHOUND pin is awarded to staff members who have served with distinction. It denotes the faithful performance of duty through a minimum of two semesters. Both Kuhn and Fritz had served as reporters previous to their promotion to the editorial staff.

Following the banquet some thirty staff members enjoyed an evening of entertainment furnished by the committee headed by Alton McCarthy, Feature Editor. An impromptu amateur show was arranged with the feature presentation consisting of a play written by two freshmen reporters, Terrence Burke and John Plunkett. The staff had also reserved several places of amusement to carry the festivities to a conclusion. Don Friert, Sports Editor, claimed the bowling crown with Dick Lerch, Assistant Editor, the winner in the billiard tournament.

General banquet chairman Bob Chartrand said, "This year's banquet was entertaining to say the least. There seems to be a good future for THE GREYHOUND PRESS CLUB when it undertakes similar social activities. Membership cards will be in the mail within the next few days." The remainder of the active staff received their membership cards at the banquet.

writing Mr. Kieran, who do you think is the best sports announcer and sports-writer in the United States?"

He paused a moment. "I like Red Barber, Ted Husing and others as Grade A sports announcers. Frank Graham was my own favorite sports columnist, but he's quitting now. However, I don't want to rank them because they are all competent or they wouldn't hold their jobs—and they are all admired friends of mine."

"I've just about had all the information I can hold, Mr. Kieran. Just one more question. Is your program really entirely unrehearsed?"

"Absolutely. Mr. Fadiman is given the questions at about 5 o'clock the day of the broadcast. He becomes familiar with them, but we go into the broadcast cold."

Now in its fifth year, Information Please has ranked tops among quiz programs since its inception. Besides the regular 'board of experts', a guest star is featured each week. For this broadcast, Clare Boothe Luce, author and representative from Connecticut was guest. Mrs. Luce was not present at the press conference.

Watchdog Sees Leon Krieger Pursuing Stage Career

By THE WATCHDOG

To the graduates he is Leon Krieger, a fellow classmate, but to at least one New York theatrical agent he is "an emcee with a future if . . ." The "if" was occasioned by Krieger's impending call to active service with the Navy.

Krieger's story opens when he was a student at Baltimore City College. A fair student, but an exceptional actor-comedian, he soon attracted the attention of theatrical booking agents. After graduation Leon was called to New York for screen tests by two major film companies. A week of answering questionnaires and posing for "stills" proved fruitless, and he returned to Baltimore to accept a scholarship at the Peabody Institute. End of Scene One.

Scene two opens with our hero dancing in a ballet at the New York World Fair. Although Krieger says his dancing ability is practically nil, the ballet troupe's manager invited Leon to a contract conference. Fate in the person of two visiting friends stepped in causing Leon to break the appointment. Once more he returned to Baltimore to continue his schooling, and appear in various service canteens as a master of ceremonies.

The next scene finds Leon auditioning in an exclusive Forty-second Street night spot. The surroundings are anything but glamorous, with charwomen scrubbing, janitors placing chairs on the tables, and one spotlight shining on the center of the dance floor. Although he cannot see them, Leon knows that the booking agent and the night club manager sit at a floor-side table, weighing his possibilities. A contract conference is scheduled but fate once more, this time in the person of the United States Navy, halts proceedings to call Krieger to active duty.

Scene four remains to be written, but Leon looks forward to it sometime after the war. His present ambition is to make his debut in Tokio. It should be a great performance.

THE FIFTH COLUMN

BY-STANDER: "Look at that youngster; the one with the cropped hair, the cigarette, and the trousers. One can hardly tell if that's a boy or a girl."

WAR WORKER: "It's a girl. She's my daughter."

BY-STANDER: "Forgive me, my good fellow. I never would have been so outspoken if I had known that you were her father."

WAR WORKER: "I'm not; I'm her mother."

'Twas a dark and stormy night and we were all seated around the camp-fire in the GREYHOUND office when some one said—and we quote—"Let Dan Bathon tell us a story". Dan Bathon began, "For the past two years, my life has been an open book. I turn around, The Watchdog writes about it. I date Shirley. The Watchdog writes about it. I worry about things. The Watchdog writes about it. Please, for the sake of a great affection I have for the Watchdog, tell him to leave me alone." Stony silence greeted the wild outburst. The Watchdog standing incognito behind the poor ex-senior president plunged a dagger between Bathon's shoulder blades with a cry of "Banzai". Shirley, Bathon and his worries would appear no more in THE GREYHOUND.

Sports Hall Of Fame

Woody Anderson . . . Dependable event and groan artist in the 145 pound wrestling class. Could always be counted on to put up a tough fight.

Bob McElroy . . . Twice named on All American Lacrosse team. Star of the North-South All-Star game. Three year veteran of the basketball team and one of the best all around sportsmen to enter the school.

Gerry Ciccarone . . . Reserve second sacker on the 1943 M-D Championship baseball nine. A real hustler.

Jack Woytowicz . . . Crafty student coach of the wrestling team. An outstanding grappler for two years before he injured his arm.

Dan Bathon . . . Captain of the 1943 track team, and one of the best quarter milers in the Mason-Dixon Conference. Also handy with the shot put. Helped put track back in the limelight at Evergreen.

Paul Connolly . . . Three year veteran of scrappy lacrosse team. Big, stellar defeuseman.

Hugh Monaghan . . . Diminutive player-manager of last year's tennis squad. Kept the team together.

Bill Roth . . . Number one high jumper on the track team. Exponent of the Western Roll.

Buck Lanier . . . Big letterman from both the basketball and baseball teams.

Charley Rouse . . . Enters the Hall of Fame as Varsity Manager of the baseball and basketball teams.

George Gay . . . Outstanding third baseman on two Mason-Dixon championship baseball teams.

Jim Hunter . . . He ran the mile for the Greyhounds. Captained the cross-country team to last year's South Atlantic Championship.

Ray Bryant . . . Wicked wood-wielding reserve of the lacrosse squad. A veteran all around player.

Harry Chase . . . One of the best soccer players ever turned out by the Greyhounds. A steady track and tennis performer.

Don Connor . . . Breast stroke stylist on the swimming team. First string center on the lacrosse team.

Leon Krieger . . . Loyola's Jim Londos. Captured the 136 pound M-D wrestling diadem in '43.

Bill Moran . . . Captain of the golf team. Number one man on the Greyhound 1942 Maryland Collegiate Championship team.

Ed Pazourek . . . Twice named All-Eastern soccer goalie. Pitched Greyhounds to two Mason-Dixon baseball diadems. Two year veteran of basketball team. Retiring President of the Athletic Association and Block L Club. Played pro ball for York.

Cal Harrison . . . Smooth playing first attackman on the lacrosse squad.

Cory Walker . . . All American lacrosse player. Predicted that the team would score ten goals per game this spring. Holds record for most goals scored in a game by a single player.

Larry Thaler . . . The third of the famed tennis family. Star of the 1941 Championship team.

Franny Ward . . . A consistent winner on the tennis team. One of the '42 "lob twins".

Joe Keelty . . . Stellar defenseman on the lacrosse team. Played against the Greyhounds two years ago with Washington and Lee.

Eric Steingass . . . Along with brother Hank established the brightest record ever compiled at Loyola in swimming.

Jim Libertini . . . Heads-up booter on the soccer team. Puts all he has into the game.

Barkley Fritz . . . Cool headed tennis player. Played tough opposition.

Joe Uhlhorn . . . Another of Loyola's basketball enthusiasts. Two year veteran of "B" squad competition.

Bill Usher . . . Small in stature but big enough to enter the Hall of Fame as a member of the "B" squad basketball team.

These men represent the best in sport but in previous years there have been equally brilliant performers. In the past few years some of the greatest names in Loyola sport have set a precedent for all of these athletes to follow. The great names of sport have also been recorded elsewhere, the Goldbergs and the Bocks will remain permanent symbols of clean sportsmanship and outstanding play on the court. The Kernans and the Bradys have hung up their spikes for the Green and Gray but there will be more as the Class of '43 proved. The Russells and the Steingass' broke records in Loyola's tank bringing glory to themselves and their Alma Mater but, they too, are but a part of the tradition of sport at Evergreen.

This list of the Class of '43 should be the beginning of another tradition. Followers of Loyola sport are urged to send in reports of past classes. List the outstanding performers and include any anecdote about memorable events in competition here at Evergreen.

Gym Floor Renovated

Indoor basketball practice will soon begin on the reconditioned gym floor. Work on the floor began right after Labor Day with the sanding.

Larger Court
The floor will be completely finished by Commencement, October 10. The basketball court has been expanded to 46 feet by 91 feet which leaves 4 feet behind each backboard, a new rule which was added last year. The floor will be lighter in color, and is covered with a new material made of bakelite.

Students Help
Lefty Reitz added that the fellows do not have to worry about dancing injuring the floor. The work in the gym was done by Lefty and Wilson with the assistance of the following students: Charles Meagher, Bill Davis, Dave Buchness, Bill Metzbowler, Ed McGarry, John Buchness, and Dutch Mohler.

At present the new lines marking off the basketball court have just been put in, and a first coat of varnish has been given to the floor. The basketball team expects to be able to start practice in a few days.

Dopester's Den

As the World Series play begins, Old Dopey trotted around the campus and gym, and discovered the sentiments of those connected with athletics. Again this year there was strong feeling between Yankee fans and those who back the Cards, as the replies indicate.

Ed McGarry—"Cards, Musical is too much for the Yanks."

Dave Buchness—"St. Louis". Wilson—"My money is on those Yanks".

Bill Davis—"Yanks". Charley Meagher—"Stick with those Yanks".

Dutch Mohler—"I like Keller and company".

Alton McCarthy—"I think I'll pick the Yankees".

Father Jacobs—"The Cards are too strong".

Jerry Cardin—"I'll take the Cardinals".

Lefty Reitz—"I can't make up my mind".

Have a Coca-Cola = Howdy, Neighbor

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

from Arizona to Australia

At home or abroad, when the American soldier says Have a "Coke" to a stranger, he's made a new buddy. From Minneapolis to Melbourne, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes —has become the mark of the good neighbor.
